April Calendar

"Adversity reveals genius, prosperity conceals it."

Horace

Quintus Horatius Flaccus (8 Dec 65 BCE – 27 Nov 8 BCE), Roman soldier & poet

April 3rd @ 19:00
Taler du Dansk?

Chat in Danish

Danish table at 'Alfred and Kamilla' Restaurant, Rudgårdsvej 103, 5000 Odense. An opportunity to practise your Danish while having fun over dinner. We chat about spontaneous themes in Danish (your language level doesn't matter) while we enjoy good food and international company. A Danish teacher leads the group. It is a great way to communicate in Danish naturally.

In addition the teacher offers: informal conversations, preparation for exams, support in special tasks or situations where you find it difficult to express yourself.

If interested, please contact Birgit Hjorth at birgit-hjorth@hotmail.com

April 11th @ 17:30
International Art Workshop

Room 097, SDU

"The Art Workshop: getting in touch with your brain's right hemisphere"

Explore something new!

You can start next month.

Using a variety of materials, we create our own works of art, exploring how we use colours and shapes to express ourselves. So drop your inhibitions, if you have any, and come for the sheer pleasure of it. Course leader, Pauline Grolin is a Canadian psychologist and amateur artist. She enjoys painting with acrylics, drawing with pastels and doing soul collage. Please email sgg@sdu.dk.

Free of charge!

illy & field of flowers

by Evelina Kvartunaite

"We can spend our lives letting the world tell us who we are. Sane or insane. Saints or sex addicts. Heroes or victims. Letting history tell us how good or bad we are. Letting our past decide our future. Or we can decide for ourselves. And maybe it's our job to invent something better."

The Numbers

How many nights have I lain here like this, feverish with plans, with fears, with the last sentence someone spoke, still trying to finish a conversation already over? How many nights were wasted in not sleeping, how many in sleep—I don't know how many hungers there are, how much radiance or salt, how many times the world breaks apart, disintegrates to nothing and starts up again in the course of an ordinary hour. I don't know how God can bear seeing everything at once: the falling bodies, the monuments and burnings, the lovers pacing the floors of how many locked hearts. I want to close my eyes and find a quiet field in fog, a few sheep moving toward a fence. I want to count them, I want them to end. I don't want to wonder how many people are sitting in restaurants about to close down, which of them will wander the sidewalks all night while the pies revolve in the refrigerated dark. How many days are left of my life, how much does it matter if I manage to say one true thing about it—how often have I tried, how often failed and fallen into depression? The field is wet, each grassblade gleaming with its own particularity, even here, so that I can't help asking again, the white sky filling with footprints, bricks, with mutterings over rosaries, with hands that pass over flames before covering the eyes. I'm tired, I want to rest now. I want to kiss the body of my lover, the one mouth, the simple name without a shadow. Let me go. How many prayers are there tonight, how many of us must stay awake and listen?
