Titel og land	Opstølgedato	Udløbsdato	Visninger	Ansøgere	Matchede profiler

- Learn why candidates are dropping off by creating a short questionnaire.
- Find out how you can reach out to your target users.

At the bottom, there is a note: "You are currently ranked number 1 out of 1 companies within your peer group."

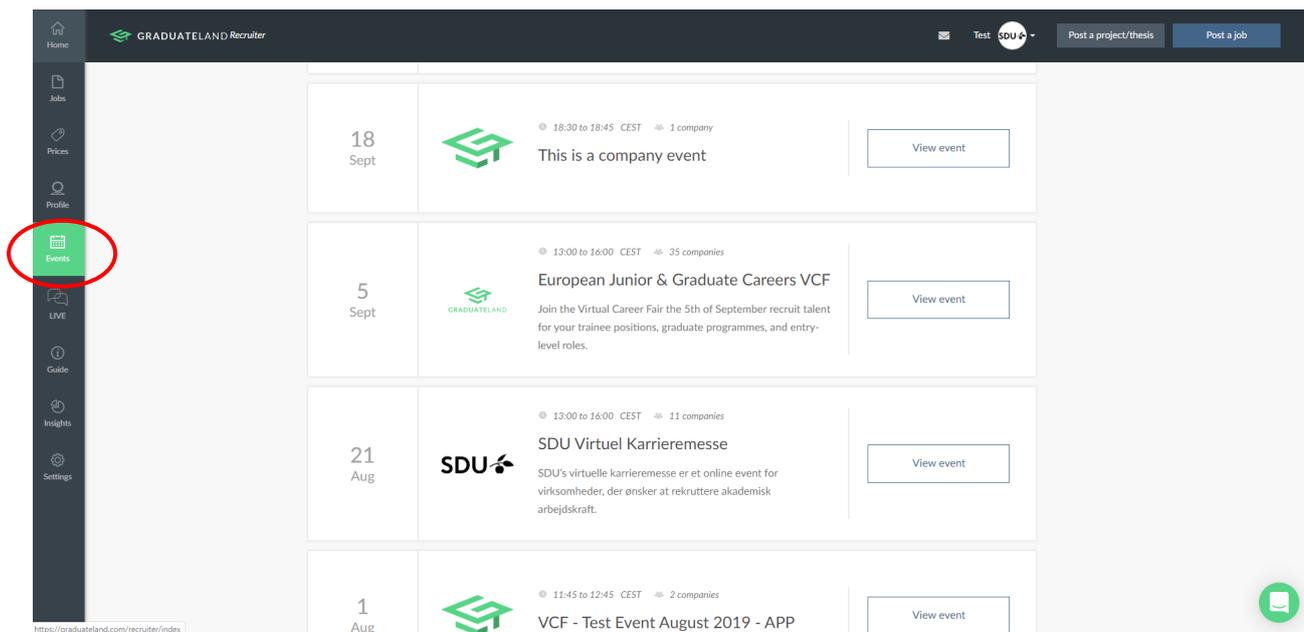

Live:

Live is a purchase service that becomes available to you as soon as you have an online post. Here you can among other things sort the candidates according to your specific requirements, write to and live chat with students, etc.

Events:

Here you can see which events have been arranged and who is organizing the events. You are welcome - as a company - to participate in all the events you want, even if SDU does not host. You can also create and organize events yourself - as a purchase service.

How to make a better post

Graduateland has prepared a number of Guides and articles that can assist you in getting in touch with the students.
