

Writing Café: How to structure a PhD thesis

29th November 2021

Odense

This course is aimed at PhD students who are starting on or are in the process of writing their thesis. We will discuss the requirements for a thesis and describe the main models for structuring a thesis. In the afternoon, students will work on their own thesis and participate in peer review, where each student presents their thesis structure in small groups. The tutors will be available for individual advice on the structure and content of your own thesis.

Lecturers: Claire Gudex and Charlotte Leboeuf-Yde
