Advanced statistical models for familial aggregation of cancer

Head of Statistics Klaus Kaae Andersen and PhD Student Luise Cederkvist Kristiansen

Danish Cancer Society

February 11th, 2014

Abstract

Which advanced statistical models are useful in studying familial aggregation of cancer and how can these methods be used to separate and quantify the importance of inheritance and environment in studies based on data from the Danish Cancer Registry.