

Curriculum Vitae

Personal Details

Name	Hagen Schmal, MD, PhD
Age	49 years
Citizenship	German

Personal Profile

Clinical professor for orthopedic surgery with special focus on traumatology, experienced in general surgical fracture treatment, surgery of the lower extremity including cartilage regeneration, correction of axis deformity, foot reconstruction, specialized in pelvic, spine and pediatric trauma surgery, strong record of scientific activity

Current Position

Head of Department for Orthopedic Surgery at the University of Freiburg

Publications and Funding

>130 peer reviewed publications, H-index 34 (Web of Science)

Funding (>2 Mio€) by ValleyTEC; Competence Center Biomaterials Baden Württemberg; Deutsche Arthrose-Hilfe e.V.; AO Foundation; Research Commission of the University of Freiburg, Federal Ministry of Education and Research Germany; Jeppe Juhl Mindelegat, Gigtföreningen, EU Interreg 5a, EU Horizon 2020 etc.

Scientific Carrier

Research in the field of lung inflammation, cartilage tissue engineering, biomarker studies focused on osteoarthritis and infection, clinical studies focused on general fracture treatment, pelvic fractures, pediatric fracture treatment, and translational stem cell research

1999	Thesis with degree „Summa cum laude“, topic: “Role for α - and β -chemokines in the pathogenesis of pulmonary complications following trauma”
2008	PhD thesis: “Role for differentiation and matrix interaction for cellular functionality in cartilage engineering”
2012	Nomination as associate professor at the University of Freiburg Medical Center
10/2015-8/2019	Clinical professorship for traumatology at the Institute of Clinical Research, University of Southern Denmark
5/2019	Nomination as professor for orthopedic surgery and traumatology at the University of Freiburg Medical Center
Since 10/2019	Adjunct professor for traumatology at the University of Southern Denmark

Freiburg, 22/10/2019

