

for PhD students

Tools to succeed with cross-cultural and international research communication

GlobalDenmark has existed since 1985. We help PhD students communicate their research results to a national and international audience. Over the past few years, more than 2,500 PhD students from universities across the country have participated in our two ECTS-accredited courses.

As a PhD student, not only do you need to master your research area, you must also be able to communicate and present your research to an international audience. You will need to communicate, present and cooperate across cultural and linguistic barriers, and GlobalDenmark can help you succeed in that endeavor.

GlobalDenmark's most popular PhD courses

Academic Writing

- Efficient writing routines
- Insights into the mechanics of a scientific paper and its various sections
- Constructive feedback from instructors and peers
- Clear syntax, correct grammar and vocabulary
- Style and personal writing strategies
- Targeted argumentation
- Working in a multicultural academic environment

Duration of 4 days, 2 ECTS, price per student is DKK 5,000 without VAT, max 20 participants per course.

Advanced Presentations Techniques

- Structure of your presentation
- Articulation and language
- Visuals (e.g. Powerpoint)
- Psychological aspects (nerves, questions, preparation)
- Interaction with your audience

Duration 4 days, 2 ECTS, price per student DKK 6,500 without VAT, max 8 participants per course.

The benefits of working with us

GlobalDenmark has more than 30 years experience coaching and expanding people's skills within international communication as well within the preparation of research papers.

Universities/PhD-school save both time and money because:

- GlobalDenmark will be responsible for all course administration
- GlobalDenmark will invoice the students directly
- GlobalDenmark's own instructors lead the course

The students are given hands-on tools to help them succeed with communicating their research to an international audience. They will also receive one-on-one guidance on issues they may be experiencing.

The students will become a part of a unique international learning environment and global network.

Contact us

For PhD students

Tools to succeed with cross-cultural and international research communication

Page 2 of 2

Other courses

- PhD project management
- Communicating in multicultural teams
- International networking for researchers
- Giving and receiving feedback
- Multicultural teaching techniques
- Poster design for researchers
- Speak English - and enjoy it!
- One-on-one coaching

Comments from course participants

"It was one of the best courses of my PhD study"

Alireza Naseri, PhD student, DTU Food, Advanced Presentation Techniques

"Thanks to the Academic Writing Course I was able to write a proper abstract and got accepted for giving a talk at a very prestigious conference"

Paula Szymczak, Industrial PhD student, Food Microbiology, Department of Food Science at KU, Academic Writing

"The teachers are very competent and quick to understand what we are trying to say",

"Really engaging teachers that guaranteed a wonderful learning environment"

"Amazing, motivated, engaged and competent teachers"

"The course was very interactive"

"It's a five star course"

Testimonials from the PhD students who have attended GlobalDenmarks Academic Writing og Advanced Presentation Techniques courses in 2016 and 2017.

Accreditation and certification

GlobalDenmark is accredited by Copenhagen University to teach academic communication in English to PhD students and senior researchers

GlobalDenmark is quality-certified with the University of East London's Quality Mark. This assures that our PhD courses comply with rigorous quality criteria on teaching methodology, teacher qualifications and course management.

Contact us

GlobalDenmark A/S · Hauchsvej 14 · DK-1825 Frederiksberg C
tel.: +45 33 86 29 30 · global@global-denmark.dk