INTRODUCTION

The project website has over the course of the last 6 months been developed and is now fully operational. It includes information about the GALAXY project including description of the aims and hypothesis of the project, a description of partner contributions and an introduction to the excellence of all partners.

All deliverables of the project that will be disseminated on a public level, can be accessed on the website.

The project manager is responsible for keeping information on the website up to date at all times during the project's lifespan. Furthermore, the project webmaster (Dr. Katrine Lindvig) is responsible for keeping all technical aspects of the website optimally running. This includes insurance of an optimal security level, as the website is also designed to be a platform for internal project communication through access to a private project forum.

The website domain is purchased and owned by the coordinating partner (University of Southern Denmark).
