series at Routledge

This book primarily incorporates an interdisciplinary and a comparative approach. Historians, sociologists, anthropologists, political scientists, philologists, psychologists and religious scholars from a diverse range of European universities, analyse Ukrainian and Russian neighbourhoods and fears of Russia present in its neighbouring countries from different perspectives.

GERHARD BESIER is a historian (PhD), theologian (DD and Habilitation) and psychologist (Diploma). His latest books include Why Human Beings Behave How They Do (2014) and Intimately Associated for Many Years, a two-part edition reproducing the correspondence between George K. A. Bell and Willem A. Visser 't Hooft from 1938 to 1958 (2015). Both are published by CSP.

KATARZYNA STOKŁOSA is the Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science and Public Management at the University of Southern Denmark. She has published various books and articles on comparative European border regions and on European history. Her most recent book (with G. Besier) is European Border Regions in Comparison: Overcoming Nationalistic Aspects or Re-Nationalization? (Routledge, 2014).
